KEEP CHRISTMAS
TREES IN WATER

Keeping the Christmas tree in water is still the best method of "fireproofing."

Kept in water, the tree will stay as fresh as any tree can be, and there will be few falling needles. To set up a tree, get a broad bottom nail, or a small tub. Then put a few inches of sand at the bottom. Cut off the base of the tree, preferably on a slight slope so there'll be fresh wood to take up the water.

Stand the tree in the sand, and fill the rest of the pail with stones. Remember to keep the sand wet with water all the time.

Let's Keep Christ in Christm

Christmas . . . and
The lights will burn brightly, and the bells will ring out;
The streets, and the stores and shops will be filled;
The gifts will be stacked high under the tree, and the festive board heavy under the Christmas feast;
There will be merriment in homes throughout the land,
and the laughter of children to infect us all;
The doors of our homes will be open, and friends will visit and clasp hands.

But more than any of these,
Let each heart become a chapel,
Remembering that on this Day one thousan
hundred and fifty-four years ago,
God gave to the world the greatest Gift of a
His only begotten Son,
Our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.
Yes, more than anything else,
Let us remember this, and keep Christ in Chris

PLANNED FEEDING WILL HOLD DOWN MILK FLAVORS'

A good feeding schedule in the dairy barn will prevent a lot of off flavors in milk during the winter months.

Dairy husbandmen at VPI say there are several things a farmer can do to keep milk quality up in cold weather.

Give strong feeds, like silage, after milking, not just before, to get rid of most feed flavors in the milk. It's also important to keep feeds cleaned up so there is not a lot of odor around the barn. Most off flavors get into the milk through the cow after she breathes the too-fragrant air.

Ventilation is the best remedy for ordinary barn odors. Even if you do not have a modern ventilating system in the barn, open windows will help. For cold weather, fix the windows so they can be tilted in at the top, but put up side protectors to prevent drafts on the animals.

Milk cooling is as important in winter as in summer. Milk utensils can cause off flavors, too, if they aren't clean. That means you need a milkhouse where you can wash and sterilize the untensils after every milking. And remove the milk from the barn to the milkhouse as soon as possible after milking.

A piece of dampened cotton will pick up tiny fragments of broken glass.
